Donate Life Month activities abound (continued from page 1)

Secretary White joined the Chicago White Sox players and signed autographs on April 24. He also threw out the first pitch at the White Sox game on April 28, the Chicago Cubs game on April 30 and the St. Louis Cardinals game on May 3.

A new initiative this year involved public and academic libraries in donor awareness activities. Donor agencies provided libraries a list of suggested books on donation and conducted a "Bookshelf Drawing," a raffle of selected books that libraries could enter and win. Bookshelf winners were: Central Citizens Library District in Clifton; Lincoln Public Library; Richton Park Public Library; Bloomingdale Public Library; Marshall Public Library; Marquette Heights Library; Seneca Public Library; and Evans Public Library in Vandalia. Libraries also were encouraged to hold donor drives, provide speakers and set up informational tables.

Other donor events included Glen Ellyn Donor Days; Chicago's Salem Baptist Church donor drive and other church events; Rockford area's annual Red Shoe Run; a collaborative event with Gift of Hope's African American Task Force, Rainbow Push and transplant centers in Chicago; a video contest; and a weeklong donor drive at the Thompson Center in Chicago. Donor drives also were held at many college campuses as well as at many businesses and hospital health fairs throughout the state. "Morgan D'Organ" joined Donate Life Illinois volunteers at many events as well as at the NBC morning show at NBC 5 Plaza.

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

There are 99,291 people waiting for organs in this country, 4,850 of them right here in Illinois.

Nationally, of the 99,291 people on the waiting list, 75,925 are waiting for a kidney, 16,348 a liver, 2,632 a heart and 2,099 a lung.

In Illinois, of the 4,850 people on the waiting list, 3,715 are waiting for a kidney, 728 a liver, 90 a heart and 49 a lung. Five of the people on the waiting list in Illinois are less than one year old.

In Illinois, more men than women are awaiting transplants – 2,846 men and 2,004 women. While more men are waiting for a kidney, liver or heart, more women are waiting for a pancreas, lung or intestine.

A great deal of planning and coordination went into Donate Life Month activities throughout Illinois in April. Educating the public about the benefits of organ and tissue donation is our focus throughout the year. But Donate Life Month provides a special opportunity to expand our reach, and this year was no exception.

This issue of Life Goes On provides a "snapshot" of where we've been during Donate Life Month and the breadth of our outreach, from libraries to community events, and from major sporting events to special ceremonies honoring donor families and transplant recipients. We hope you enjoy the photos inside.

Many of our facilities and staff members were involved in Donate Life Month activities this year. Donor "footprints" marked walkways at facilities, and banners were displayed with personal messages from local donor families and recipients. A huge thank you goes out to everyone who helped spread the word about donation, including the many facility managers and staff members who assisted in setting up facility displays. Your support is key to getting the donor message out, and your dedication this April is very much appreciated!

Donate Life Month activities abound

The positive message that donor staff spread throughout Illinois in April during Donate Life Month reached thousands of people. Events included donor education at major league ballgames, a park bench dedication in Quincy, a tree-planting ceremony in honor of donor families in Naperville, library displays and donation-related book suggestions, registration drives and donor days, events with the traveling Kidney Mobile, and banners and literature racks alongside individual donor stories and photos in Driver Services facilities.

"I am very proud of the efforts of so many people in sending a positive message about donation to thousands of Illinois residents this spring," said Secretary of State Jesse White. "Spreading the word about the importance of donation and involving our Driver Services facilities in those efforts made a huge impact on reaching potential donors across the state."

The Secretary of State's office kicked off Donate Life Month with a press conference where Secretary White unveiled the 2008 donor commercial featuring Brittney and Jarrett Payton, the children of Chicago Bears great Walter Payton whose efforts had a dramatic impact on donation. The commercial focused on the importance of re-registering because the law has changed.

The Secretary of State's office also initiated a direct-mail program to all Illinois drivers who turn 18, encouraging them to join the new registry. To date, the office has added more than 6,000 new donors to the registry as a result of the mailing.

Photo #3 – Brian Bush, regional coordinator for the Organ/Tissue Donor Program, assisted the staffs at hospitals in Eldorado and McLeansboro in Southern Illinois during a two-day screening event with the Illinois Kidney Foundation. The Kidney Mobile conducted the screenings and more than 100 new donors registered at the two events.

Photo #15 – Audrey Williams, a student at Illinois Central College in Peoria, accepts her first-place award from Secretary White for her winning entry in a college video contest sponsored by the McLean County Life Goes On Committee and Donate Life Illinois. Audrey's video is about a 9-year-old Bloomington girl who received a heart transplant. The video can be viewed at www.LifeGoesOn.com.

Photo #16 – "Morgan D'Organ" made an appearance at many donor events in April, including Glen Ellyn Donor Days.
